

Camp
Carolina for BOYS
BREVARD, NORTH CAROLINA

The Camp Philosophy and Purpose

The philosophy of Camp Carolina centers around simplicity of life, self-reliance, and human relations. Our purpose is to make a boy's summer a valuable factor in his complete development. This purpose is based on the belief that almost anything can be accomplished through planning, determination and enthusiasm.

The challenging experiences on the athletic field, in the woods, on the water, or on horseback are adventures on a boy's personal frontier. These adventures are abundantly possible in a boy and man encampment where there are wise leaders and a stimulating outdoor setting.

We firmly believe, and many eminent educators agree, that more teachable moments arise during the long term camping experience than during a comparable stay at any other educational institution; teachable moments being the time when a boy is enthusiastic, interested, and searching for answers.

Counselor and Camper Relationship

In the realm of relationships with boys and men, it is in the cabin group that the real opportunity afforded a boy by a camp is unique. It is in the cabin group living that a boy increases his knowledge of individual responsibility and cooperative effort.

In the hiring of our staff, emphasis is placed upon the cabin responsibility. Our staff contract reads: "My first duty shall be to see that the campers in my cabin have a maximum experience in health, fun, and growth; my second, to make such personal contributions as I can to the happiness, cooperation, and well-being of the camp community; my third, to contribute as I can to the activity or special assignment field."

We feel that camp leaders hold a position of unique influence and the importance of exemplary personal habits are therefore magnified.

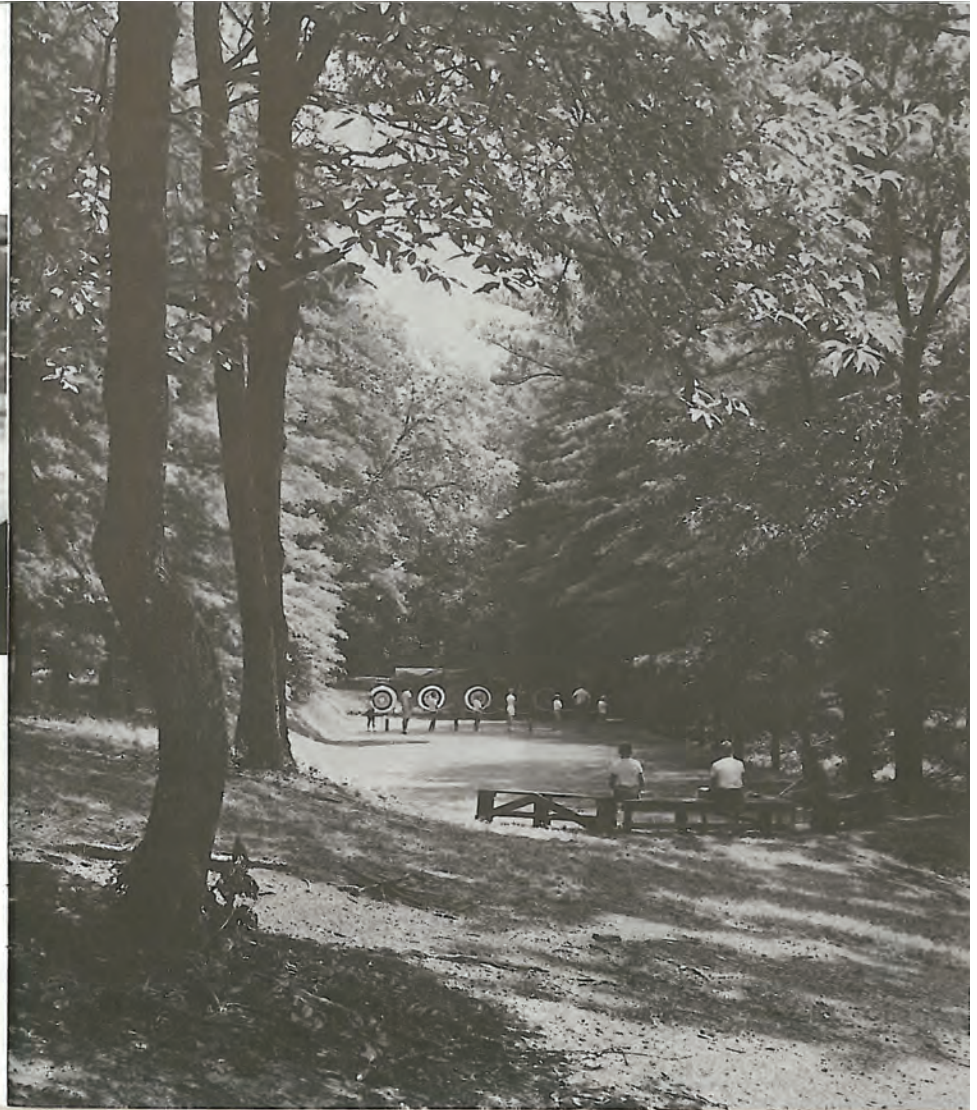

Physical and Mental Development

Our program is designed so that a boy may have fun in the various activities offered and so that he may learn basic skills in the long-term stay here.

Each Sunday evening after Vespers the campers and counselors go to their cabins and the campers are given an opportunity to sign up for four activities for the coming week for the four daily instructional periods, three in the morning and one in the afternoon. There is free time from twelve-thirty to one-thirty each morning and from five to six-thirty each afternoon for relaxation, recreational swim, golf, tennis, trampoline, reading, ping pong, and fishing. There is supervision but no instruction during free time.

Our program is a balanced mixture of individual and group athletics; nature and crafts, deep woods tripping involving hiking, horseback and canoeing.

One of the five central bath houses, located behind the cabins; flush toilets, hot showers.

Health . . .

Plenty of good food prepared by experienced cooks. A well qualified dietitian in charge of our kitchen and dining room.

Two registered nurses living at our infirmary— one on duty at all times.

of the Boys

The health of the Camp is in the care of Dr. Charles L. Newland, surgeon and general practitioner, in Brevard. He is assisted by two registered nurses who live at Camp at our well-equipped Infirmary. The prevention of accident and illness is stressed by pre-camp staff training and a system of health inspection throughout the camp season.

Camp Carolina is rated Grade A by the State Board of Health. We have an underground sewage system, flush toilets, hot showers and electric lights.

The reputation for good meals has long been established at Camp Carolina. Carefully planned menus and the preparation of wholesome food in abundance are under the direction of an experienced and well-trained dietitian.

In a cabin living situation there is a counselor in each cabin with seven boys. With the 8, 9 and 10 year old campers there are two counselors and six boys in a cabin. Each camper has his own bunk bed, a locker for his clothes and a place for his trunk. The cabins are well-screened, each having a front door, a back door and a porch that commands a good view.

Sailing during free time.

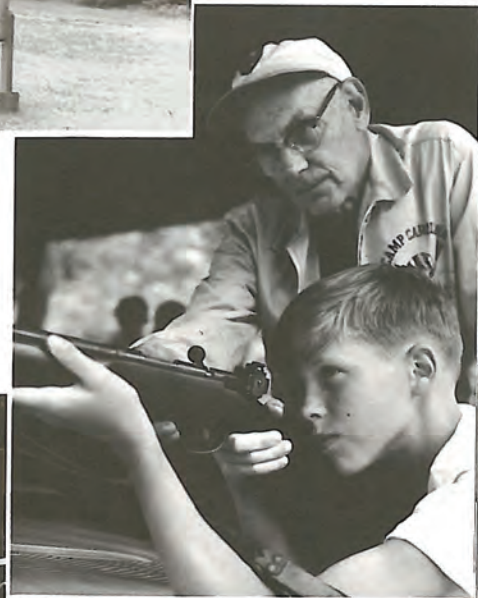

Riflery is one of the most popular activities at Carolina. The boys can earn the medals and certificates that go with membership in the National Rifle Association. Stress is placed on safety.

Varied Sports

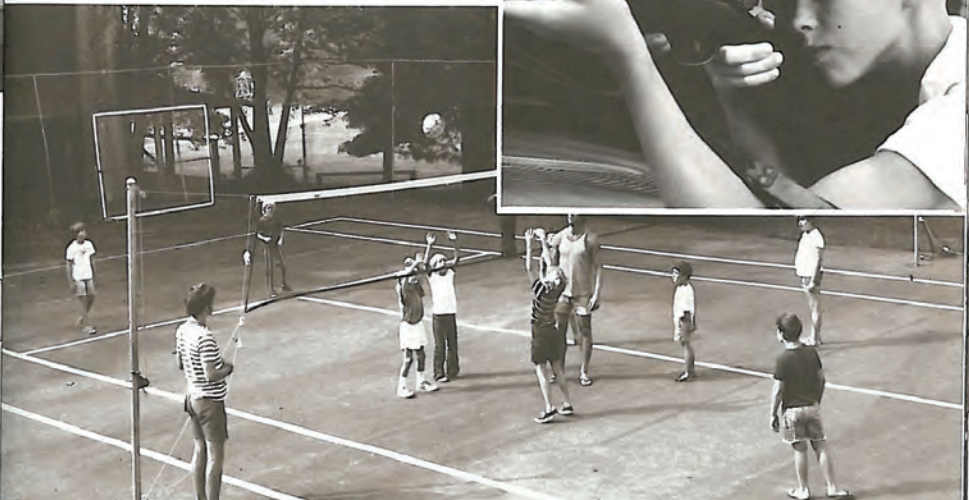

A good sport for individual development. We have a 220-yard oval track and teach skills in many of the field events.

Volleyball, a great team sport, is another twilight game. In addition, we play Capture the Flag, Tug o' War, Kick Ball, Scout Meet Scout, Indian War Games, Twilight Canoeing.

A free time activity. We stock the lake with mountain trout.

We play flag football and baseball and work on fundamentals of the games; softball at twilight.

History of Carolina

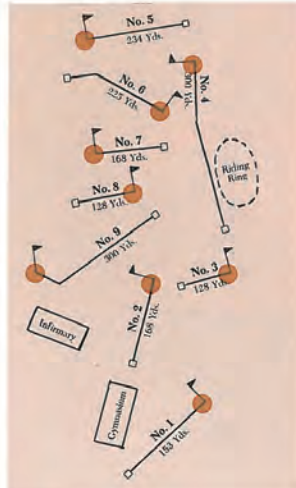

Camp Carolina was founded in 1924 by Professor D. Meade Bernard of Jacksonville, Florida. Many men have contributed to the Camp's success. Among those in the early days was Dr. J. M. McConnell, Dean of the Faculty and History Professor, Davidson College, N. C. For more than twenty seasons the camp Chaplain and Associate Director was Dr. Taliaferro Thompson of Richmond, Va.

Following Professor Bernard as Director of Carolina was his son, Dr. Richard R. Bernard, professor at Davidson College. In recent years key men in the operation of Carolina have been Leonard W. Dick, retired Athletic Director of Woodberry Forest School, Va., and Coach Hoke Sloan, former tennis coach at Clemson University, S. C.

The present camp director and general manager, Nath Thompson, lives with his family in Brevard, having joined Carolina in 1959. Prior to that Nath had twelve years experience as camper, counselor and administrator at two other camps. Instrumental in our present operation as our Program Director is Coach M. B. Chafin, Physical Education Instructor and Assistant Tennis Coach at the University of Florida.

Since 1953 the owners of Camp Carolina have been Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. McConnell. Mr. McConnell and his wife, the former Elizabeth Bernard, have a home on the camp property. In 1961 they purchased Rockbrook Camp for Girls at Brevard, N. C. Mr. McConnell was a counselor at Carolina back in the early years of camp when his father was Associate Director. Camp Carolina continues to operate under the same general policy upon which it was originally founded.

Golf

Camp Carolina is built in and around its own nine hole golf course. It is strictly private and is completely within the camp grounds. Our course has sand greens which are kept in good condition. The fairways are excellent. There are ample opportunities for instruction at activity periods and for a round of golf during free time. Many of the younger campers take up golf for the first time at Carolina. We are pleased to offer these unusual facilities for this important carry-over sport.

Tennis

There is no more popular sport at Carolina than tennis. We have ten excellent courts, five hard-surfaced and five are well-drained clay courts. There is a generous amount of individual instruction and very capable instructors. Tournaments and tennis ladders are held during the camp season. Tennis is played more during free time than any other activity.

Water Sports . . .

Our beautiful eight acre lake, which is strictly private, affords one of the Camp's chief attractions. It is ideal for a boys' camp, being large enough for swimming, boating and canoeing, and at the same time sufficiently small to make possible that close supervision which is essential for safety at a boys' camp. Our waterfront swimming area was designed in consultation with an American National Red Cross representative. Its dimensions are 20 yards by 55 yards. It is equipped with diving boards at regulation heights. There is an area roped off for beginners and emphasis is placed on instruction in swimming, diving and canoeing. The buddy system is used during recreational swim.

Indoor Activities

In addition to the activities shown on these two pages, we have an indoor spot for every outdoor activity to meet during rainy weather.

Arts and Crafts are a major part of the program.

The understanding of nature appeals to all ages, especially the younger campers.

Wrestling, weight-lifting and the trampoline are popular in the Lil Gym.

Basketball creates strong interest and competition.

Deep Woods Camping

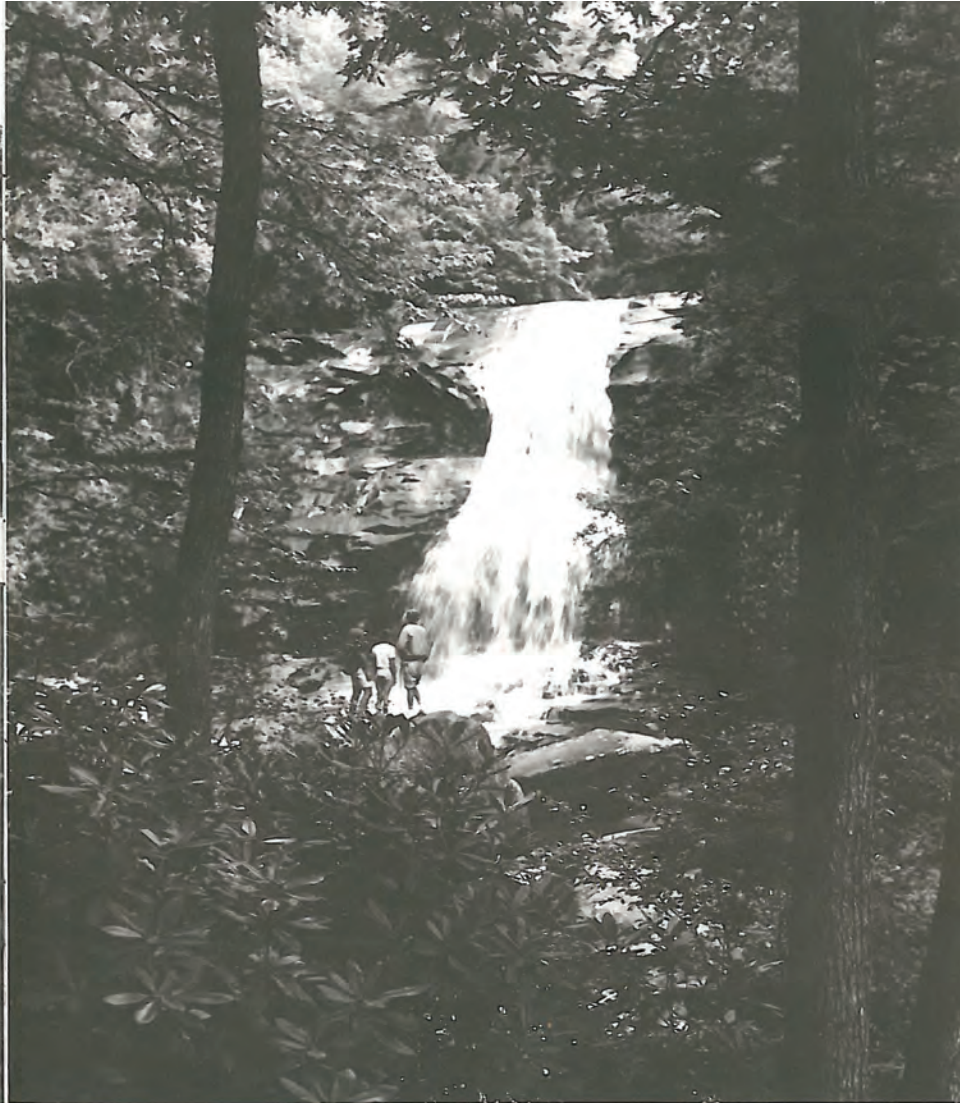

Opportunities are abundant for deep wood hikes on our own property and into Pisgah National Forest which our property adjoins. We also get into the Nantahala National Forest and the Great Smoky Mountain National Park.

Once each week there are cabin trips to waterfalls, outpost camps, Slippery Rock, and mountain tops such as Devil's Courthouse, Looking Glass Mountain, Mount Pisgah. For the boys who pass their swim tests and learn canoe skills there are river trips on calm streams. Exciting and challenging white water trips for advanced canoeists.

Twenty canoes, four kayaks, one C-1, and two Scorpion sailboats comprise our fleet.

Overnight hikers resting on the trail.

Inspirational Opportunities

Sunday is a different day at Carolina. There is free time for letter writing and reading, and the usual free time for swimming, tennis, golf and fishing. The afternoons are filled with special organized games. Our Camp Chaplain is in charge of the religious services conducted at Camp. We have Sunday School on Sunday morning by age group, and then meet at dusk on Sunday evening for a Vesper Service at our outdoor chapel on the edge of the lake.

Catholic boys are provided transportation to Mass on Sundays.

There are opportunities for cabin devotions each evening between Call-To-Quarters and Taps.

Each Friday night all the campers and counselors gather at our council ring across the lake. There is group singing, stories told by the boys of the overnight horseback, canoeing and hiking trips taken through the week, sometimes a folk song or a poem by one of our campers or counselors, and a story by a master story teller.

There is recognition for good citizenship in the cabin and good attitude and participation in activities. This is the order of the Old Man of the Mountain. A canoe paddle, a useful instrument in a boy's hand, is the award. We close with a maxim by one of the campers and then taps is sung around the council fire.

Horseback

The purpose of our riding program is to get as many boys in the woods and on the trails as possible. In order to go on the trails, a boy must learn or demonstrate his skill in our two riding rings. We ride English Saddle, Forward Seat and we teach jumping under careful supervision. We take overnight rides into Pisgah Forest to our outpost camp.

Counselor Aids and Assistants Program

The C. A. Program at Carolina is for 15, 16, and 17 year old campers. Its purpose is to give the older campers an opportunity to begin to take responsibility that will offset part of their fee and help them and us determine if they may be interested and qualified to be future members of the Camp Staff. Enrollment is limited to a small group and former Carolina Campers are given preference. Those interested in more details should request them from Nath Thompson, Director, Camp Carolina, Brevard, N. C.
